Please note:

1. The psychiatric nurse practitioner is not a counselor or a therapist. Her primary role is medical diagnosis and discussion of treatment options. Counseling or therapy may be recommended as part of the treatment plan (with or without medications), but we do not have a licensed psychologist, therapist, counselor, or social worker on staff currently.
2. The psychiatric nurse practitioner is not able to appear in court or prepare any reports for the court. The provider does not get involved in any custody disputes and will not testify or prepare any documents related to custody or other legal matters for parents.
3. Acute mental health emergencies can occur and occasionally our psychiatric nurse practitioner will run behind. Please understand that we are diligent about trying to stay on time, but there are circumstances and mental health crises that arise that cannot be ignored. In turn, if your child/teen is ever in need of extra time for additional discussion, treatment, or crisis management, please know that their wellbeing will also be prioritized. Thank you for your understanding.
